PLANS FOR THE ROYAL WEDDING AT COBURG. The royal wedding at Coburg is now fixed for Thursday. April 19, but, as the date has already been changed four times, it is quite likely that there may be yet another alteration. It has been found difficult to choose a day that will suit both Queen and the German Emperor. The proeremonial of the wedding, including the order of the various processions from the staterooms of the Echless to the chapel, was dispatched last week from Coburg to Florence, in order that the Queen might inspect it; and Her Majesty will no doubt make several alterations in the prono doubt make several alterations in the pro-gramme. The sovereigns and heirs-apparent present will include Emperor William, the King of Saxony, the King of Wurtem-berg, the Grand-duke of Baden, the Grand-duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, the Czarowitz, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Sparta.

PRINCE OF WALES TO GIVE A GARDEN PARTY. There will not be a ball at Marlborough House his season, but the Prince and Princess of Wales intend to give a garden party early in July, at which the Queen will probably be present.

THE QUEEN TO VISIT KING HUMBERT. The King and Queen of Italy have invited the Queen to pay them a visit next week at the Royal Palace at San Rossore, near Pisa. Her Majesty will travel by special train in the morning from Florence to Pisa, drive thence to San Rossore, take school with King Humbert and Queen Marguerite, and return early in the evening.

BELGIAN ROYAL FAMILY'S ARTISTIC SKILL

The artistic skill of the various members of the Belgian royal family was conspicuous at the annual fancy fair given last week in the saloons of ces of Orange. Lady Plunkette was able to ond day a terrible sensation was caused by the discovery that three fashionably dressed Italian women, no had been made much of and generally mistaken for distinguished strangers, had annexed a large number of purses and were in reality members of the "swell mob." They were captured flagrante delicto, with a dozen purses in their possession, M. PATENOTRE AND HIS AMERICAN BRIDE.

The announcement of the engagement of M. Patenotre, the French Ambassador at Washington, to an American woman was made in Paris at the very moment when at the Affaires Etrangères it was being discussed whether French diplomatists should be permitted in future to marry foreigners. The rule of the German Foreign Office is, I believe, that if a member of the diplomatic body takes to wife an alien without special permission of the Emperor. which is rarely granted, he ipso facto ceases to be long to the career, and an unofficial proposal to adopt a similar regulation in France arose out of a recent Copenhagen scandal, which has brought about the harsh dismissal of a diplomatist once well known in London, the respective wives of the two persons involved-an ex-Minister and a military Attaché—both being foreigners.

It is stated that when in conversation a suggestion to borrow the German rule was made to M. Casimir Perier, the Premier and Foreign Minister, he observed that there were other countries which needed its application more than France, as, when in March he lunched at Lord Duffern's with the members of the British Embassy present in Paris, who were invited to meet Her Royal Hichness, ac. who were invited to meet Her Royal Highness, according to the usual practice, and not one of them was an English woman, one being a German and the others Americans. It would perhaps be a strong measure absolutely to prohibit our diplomatists from being married by enterprising foreigners, but it is extremely anomalous, and sometimes, owing to circumstances well known in the service, very awkward, that the wives of even our minor rep resentatives abroad should not be daughters of Eng-land, It would, consequently, give unmixed satis-If the intimation were made from headquarters that the highest promotion would be reserved, ceteris ried English women, or who had preferred cellbac to the ambitious blandishments of l'étrangère.

HONORS REFUSED BY LORD LEIGH.

Lord Leigh, who has just refused an Earldom, has lived almost entirely on his extate in Warwickshire, where he is regarded as a model landlord and excellent farmer. He has been pre-eminently a country gentleman all his life. Lord Leigh was cointed Lord Lieutenant of Warwickshire by Lord Palmerston, and always has been true to the Radical principles which latterly have been associated with the family name; but until about the peried of the Regency, Stoneleigh Abbey was a great Tory house. Lord Leigh is married to a sister of the Puke of Westminster, while one of his daughters is Lady Jersey, who is a most zealous Lord and Ludy Leigh entertained the Queen and Prince Albert at Stoneleigh Abbey. THE DRAMA.

MOUNET-SULLY AS RUY BLAS.

Last night, at Abbey's Theatre, Mr. Mounet-Sully appeared as Ruy Blas, a character to which his person, talents and judgment seem to be exactly suited, and in which he gave a remarkably brilliant manifestation of dramatic power and skill. The fact that it was often acted here by Edwin Hooth, who presented a prose version of Victor Hugo's tracked drama, reduced from five acts to three. In the original French piece Don Caesar de Bazen, omitted from the English piece—is a prominent figure. "Ruy Blas" has held the stare for more than half a century,—its first representation having occurred at the Théâtre de la Remaissance, in Paris.

St. Firmin as Don Caesar, and Mme. Louise Beaudoin as the Queen. It is in the vein of its predecessor, "Hernani," and is devoted to the giorification of idolatrous love for a woman. That ideal kept its place in Victor Bugo's mind till the last,—for the sailor in "The Toilers of the Sea" is prompted by the same motive that actuates Hernani and Ruy Blas; it is to be observed, however, that it is in the veines for the sailor in "The Toilers of the Sea" is prompted by the same motive that actuates Hernani and Ruy Blas; it is to be observed, however, that the Russial Russial and Ruy Blas; it is to be observed, however, that the Russial the Brussels Palace, which once belonged to the prompted by the same motive that actuates Her- further the Brussels Paince, which of the princes of Orange. ## THE FEMALE IN DISTRESS.

Camille and the second Mrs. Tanqueray arrived in town last night—the former in her cus tomary state of pulmonary debility, and the latter in her usual bad odor. The one may be seen in the person of Miss Clara Morris, at the Fourteenth Street Theatre; the other in the person of Mrs. Kendal, at the Star. Public interest in amatory long ago assuaged in this community, and the re-currence of Camille is no. likely to cause excurrence of Camille is no. likely to cause excitement. The need of illumination as to the inquiry whether an old rounder ought to marry the cast-off mistress of most of his acquaintances has not become any more precing than it was at the beginning of the season, and therefore the return of Mrs. Tanqueray may not much disturb the local peace. The presence of these females is, however, recorded, and people who are interested in such exceedingly thresome types of social depracity have now an opportunity of gratifying their peculiar tastes. Even a medical treatise possesses allurement for a certain order of mind. Apart from the plays it is to be remembered that the actors presenting them are ciever and attractive. Clara Morris is a genus. Mrs. Kendal is not. But both are interesting, and both were cordially welcomed, Mrs. Kendal seems still to labor under the delusion that she is a ministering angel to the public morals—and the public is to have two years to rise to the conceded—but public morality requires no theatricat calciums. Mr. Kendal acted with his customary composure.

INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY.

THE PURCHASE OF IVY HILL, IN SOUTH ORANGE, BY THE NEWARK STREET AND WATER BOARD CONDEMNED ELD TION OF-

FICERS TO BE TRIED. The Grand Jury for the December term of the ourts at Newark came into court yesterday with eight presentments and a number of indictments, chiefly of election officers in the election last November. The Grand Jury explained in the presentments that they had encountered many obstacles both in the investigation of election frauds and of ments that they had encountered many obstacies, both in the investigation of election frauds and of the acts of public officers and official boards.

One of the most important matters of investigation by the Grand Jury was the purchase, at an exorbitant price, of a tract of land known as Ivy Hill, in South Orange, as a site for a new reservoir. The property was bought or pre-empted by Edwin Taylor for $45,000 and purchased from him for Taylor for $45,000 and purchased from him for Gouble that price by the Street and Water Board immediately after he had secured possession of it. The Grand Jury examined Taylor several times without eliciting from him sufficient information to base an indictment upon. The presentment sets forth these facts and eavs that the board could have acquired the property for one half the cost simply by instituting condemnation proceedings.

Another matter investigated was the appropriation and expenditure of $20,000 by the Road Board for alleged work on the county roads. The jury say that this money was spirit on the eve of an election, that the work was a mere pretence, and that as many as forty men were engaged in loading one small cart. The investigation of election frauds developed many cases of the kind, beddes many cases of fraudulent naturalization by Democratic managers. Despite the difficulty of setting evidence from men afraid of criminating themselves, a large amount of evidence was obtained and many indictments were found. Other presentments to the court relate to the practice of usury by mortgage loan companies, and to the condition of several county institutions.

VETOED BY THE GOVERNOR. ACTION ON A LARGE NUMBER OF BILLS.

Albany, April 2 - Governor Flower to-day signed forty-four laws and vetoed five bills. This was the largest number of ten-day bills which have become laws in any day within the recollection of the Secretary of State's employes, Governor Flower

t and possibly quite langerous legislation, des that "exery moneyed corporation herets incorporated by a special law, with power to be denosits of money at interest and to issue bonds," shall possess all the powers of true bandes.

The General Corporation law defines moneyed corporations as all corporations formed under or subject to the Banking and Insurance laws. This would include banks, savings banks, safe deposits and insurance companies. If any of these fluancial institutions happened to have been incorporated by special laws with power to receive deposits of money at interest and to issue bonds (and it is known that some of them were thus incorporated) this sweeping amendment would practically convert them into trust companies. Certain insurance companies, mortgage companies and banks could thus enjoy all the privileges and powers of trust companies.

Such legislation not only lacks the conservative safeguards which ought to characterize all financial inw-making, but violates sound principles of corporate legislation. There is aircady a general law for the incorporation of trust companies. If special corporations wish to acquire trust company powers and privileges they should incorporate under that general law and be subject to its restrictions and requirements.

TILLMAN'S DOINGS AS A DICTATOR.

THE LAW AND THE MAN AT FAULT. From The Providence Journal.

What has finally brought out his reckless and autocratic methods in their extremest form has been the attempt to enforce a liw which, even if its enforcement had been in the hands of a more discreet executive, was practically certain in due time to rouse to indignant protest, and even to open rebellion, a spirited people like those of South Carolina.

From The Nashville American.

The situation in South Carolina has the peculiarly irritating feature of a clean-cut division between classes—the population of the cities and the wealthy element being arrayed against the Governor, who has on his side the rural districts.

CLASS DISTINCTIONS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

HIGH-HANDED USURPATION.

High-Handed Usurpation.

From The Chattanooga Times.

Now we learn that the Governor has seized all telegraph lines in the State and placed a censorship over them. This is high-handed usurpation. The lines in question have interstate character, and in that aspect are protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States. If South Carolina escapes an internecine war during the balance of Tillman's term she will be more lucky than she was wise in electing him her chief magistrate.

NO SIGNS OF A HALT YET.

From The Atlanta Constitution.

We sympathize with Governor Tillman as a fearless, able and honest executive, but we also sympathize with his people. The Dispensary law may be the wisest solution of the liquor problem ever attempted, but it will fail if the spy system is a part of it. Governor Tillman's patriotism will prob-

The Governor's proclamation declaring a state of insurrection, and his assumption of control over the railroads and telegraph lines, will complicate matters and probably bring on a serious erisis. The business of "ruling" in this country is fraught with many difficulties.

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

Edward Harrigan and his company appeared before a large and delighted audience last night at the Harlem Opera House in "Reilly and the 400." The play will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night. The present opportunity is the last that New-Yorkers will have in a long time of sceing Mr. Harrigan's company, as it is about to start on a long tour.

DEATH FOLLOWS AN OPERATION. Pittsburg, April 2.-E. B. Wall, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania Company, died suddenly at 8:30 o'clock last evening in the Homeo-pathic Hospital. Death followed a few hours after Senate Committee on Prisons to hear the evidence an operation had been performed for appendicitis of the managers of the Reformatory, and to make Up to Saturday afternoon Mr. Wall attended to his of the managers of the Reformatory, and to make a report regarding the necessity of an investigation and what length of fine, in its opinion, such an investigation would take.

William Brooklield, of New-Yerk, chairman of the Republican State Committee, arrived here late to make to-might, and naturally his visit is supposed to have some relation to the vote which is set down for to morrow in the Senate into Senate Legent's bill.

It p to Saturday afternoon Mr. Wall attended to his regular duties. He became violently ill and was removed to the hospital, where it was discovered that he was suffering from peritonlits, or inflammation he addomin. The inflammation was caused by appendicitis. The operation was successful, but the shock was so operation was successful, but
